

TOPIC 25
HEAT TRANSFER
- CONDUCTION

CONDUCTION is the transfer of heat through solid matter. This method of heat transfer is too slow to be important for surface fire spread because wood is not a good conductor of heat. However, it is the primary method of heat transfer from ground fires and is important when working in a mop up role.

